Typeface Usage

Consistent use of typography and sizing within the collateral unifies the overall system.

Univers Condensed is the primary typestyle for Gastroenterology. This is a sans serif typeface that remains legible in very small sizes and is widely available.

The Palatino family of typefaces is the secondary typestyle. A classic serif typeface, Palatino is distinctive and widely available.

Because they are contrasting typefaces, Univers Condensed and Palatino can appear together successfully in printed collateral.

Usage

The specific names of Univers and Palatino may vary with manufacturers. To ensure visual consistency, match examples shown below; not all weights and sizes are indicated here.

Photography & Illustration Guidelines

Selection

The images selected for each brochure must be consistent with the brand and image of Mass General while reflecting and maintaining the quality of the institution in an innovative way. To choose appropriate images, consideration should be given to overall design of the standardized pieces contained in this manual for consistent appearance. The general guideline for selection is imagery which evokes “Approachable Authority.” Both photography and illustration are acceptable.

Style

In terms of style, please consider the following guidelines. Imagery should:

- Look natural, not posed.
- Be human-focused, with visible emotion.
- Involve action or interaction between people, rather than subjects simply smiling at each other or the camera.
- Provide a new view of a typical situation, or be shot from an interesting or unusual angle.
- Portray physicians and patients in a consultative environment — whether physician to physician, physician to patient or patients within an office/center.

Types of Collateral

There are two distinct categories of collateral which should be designed in a consistent manner following the same grid structure as provided in these standards (see collateral covers, etc.) The images should be selected relative to the category of communication which includes:

- Physician to Physician Communications. Always use the “GI Man” image, either as the main visual or along with other imagery. When using descriptive images, use imagery that is realistic, scientific and high-tech. These pieces introduce new concepts to the audience and should therefore provide a visual connection for the physician.
- Patient Communications. Use imagery that is warm and welcoming, approachable. Photographs and illustrations should provide a level of comfort and a sense of security. Avoid imagery that might make the reader uncomfortable; photographs featuring surgery, trauma or difficult situations would not be suitable. The “GI Man” image is never used for patient communications.

Recommended photographers and illustrators can be provided by the Mass General Marketing Department.

Maintaining a Consistent Style

Return Address

When placing a return address on a collateral mailing panel (stationery is treated individually), it should appear below the Massachusetts General Hospital logo in the following format:

Service Center

Building, Floor
100 Street Address
Boston MA, 02114

Service center is Univers Condensed 9/11, left aligned, upper/lower, space after paragraph is .035".
Address is Univers Condensed Light 9/11, left aligned, upper/lower. Color is black.

Signature

When placing a signature on the back cover of a brochure or other collateral, it should contain the following items in the following order:

1. Massachusetts General Hospital logo
2. Service/center/line name
3. Division name
4. Street address (including building if needed)
5. Telephone number (optional)
6. Fax number (optional)
7. Web site (optional)

Phone numbers

The appropriate format for phone numbers is 000-000-0000. The area code is not set off in parentheses. When listing a toll-free phone number, a "1" may be used in front of the number: 1-000-000-0000. When both a phone number and fax number are shown, the abbreviations "Tel:" and "Fax:" should be used before the numbers, like so:

Tel: 000-000-0000
Fax: 000-000-0000

Spacing

Use only one space following colons or periods, not two.

Printing Guidelines

Printing Recommendations

The recommended printing of collateral materials is offset printing, 4-color process with a spot gloss varnish on color bands and photography/illustrations, and a dull varnish on everything else.

When budgets are limited, 2-color printing with an overall dull varnish is acceptable.
